Golden, Colorado, April 5, 2007 – CoorsTek, Inc., one of the largest technical ceramics manufacturers in the world, recently received the Pioneer Award from the Jefferson County Colorado Economic Council.

Presented by Kevin McCasky, Jefferson County Commissioner, the Pioneer Award is given each year to a Jefferson County company that demonstrates a pioneer attitude within its industry and among businesses in Jefferson County. The company must provide standards for other businesses to follow in today's rapidly changing global economy and must have demonstrated significant and sustained growth that has contributed to Jefferson County's economy.

Accepting the award was Chairman and CEO of CoorsTek, John K. Coors. "I am honored to accept this award on behalf of CoorsTek," stated Coors. "For almost 100 years, Jefferson County has been our base for significant technological innovation and expansion into global markets," Coors continued.
